

ANTHRAX VICTIM MAY LIVE; SERUM CONQUERS CRISIS

"I'm Still Here," Gasps Patient After Long Struggle with Death.

BELLEVUE GETS NEW SUSPECT CASE

Physicians, Elated, Give Stackpole Third Injection—Pasteur Institute Offers Aid.

The chances for the recovery of Judge George F. Stackpole, of Riverhead, Long Island, who has been making a game fight at Bellevue for the last five days against anthrax, a rare and deadly disease in humans, were considerably increased yesterday. The patient survived the crisis of the poisoning, which was reached early yesterday morning, and showed some improvement during the day.

The newly discovered anthrax serum, furnished by Dr. Adolph Eichhorn, chief of the pathological division of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, appeared to be counteracting the work of the poisonous germs. A third injection of forty cubic centimetres was given the patient at 9 a. m. Dr. H. M. Silver, the Stackpole family physician, spoke hopefully of his patient's recovery.

Martin Brodsky, 58 years old, a laborer of Riverhead, Long Island, walked into Bellevue Hospital last night and asked to be treated for anthrax. Dr. R. R. Washburn, visiting physician at the hospital, and Dr. H. Dwyer examined him and found a carbuncle on the left side of his neck, similar to that of Stackpole in 1912, a few hours away from Mr. Stackpole's room.

For the last three weeks Brodsky has been troubled with the carbuncle. On the advice of Dr. A. G. Terrill, of Riverhead, who believed the carbuncle looked like incipient anthrax, he went to Bellevue Hospital.

As the hospital is maintained only for the use of residents of the city, the city authorities were reluctant to take Brodsky and admitted him only at the earnest solicitation of Dr. H. Dwyer, who believed that the anthrax serum they had might save him.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Judge Stackpole was given up by the doctors. His temperature was 104 and his pulse very low. His wife, his son Philip, and his daughter, Mrs. A. Hayes, of Astoria, N. Y., who had come to help comfort her, and sought some badly needed sleep. She slept from 10 a. m. to about 4 p. m. She greeted the newspaper men with a smile and said they all felt very much encouraged.

Dr. Silver seemed much elated after visiting his patient during the afternoon. He said he believed the tide had turned. The reaction of the poison in the system assumed minor importance, as the physician said the heart action continued satisfactory. His temperature, which had been 104½, was down to 102 and his pulse was strong, he said.

Charles Norris, of the pathological department of Bellevue, said that if the patient should die it would not necessarily show that the serum was useless in human beings.

Inoculation Kills Guinea Pig. "If the serum doesn't work on Judge Stackpole," said Dr. Norris, "there is no reason to assume it is not effective, because when the poison gets thoroughly into the system, as it did in this case, the serum might not work. The difficulty with anthrax is that persons are afflicted with it in such a way that they have anything more than a boil. Furthermore, physicians are unable to diagnose the disease until the swelling begins, and then it is usually too late."

A guinea pig was inoculated with an emulsion from a sub-culture of the blood of Judge Stackpole at 10:30 a. m. Monday. It died yesterday at 3:30 p. m. from a well developed anthrax. The inoculation was made in the pathological department of the hospital in order to leave no doubt as to the nature of the malady from which the patient was suffering.

A strict silence was imposed upon Judge Stackpole during the day, in order that he might not drain the little reserve of strength left after the long fight. The Rev. W. F. Harmon, pastor of the Congregational church, which the Stackpoles attend in Riverhead, said that he had spoken with the judge several times during the day, but had not allowed him to talk.

"It isn't because he is unable to talk or because he doesn't want to," said Mr. Harmon. "He would talk if he would let him, but it isn't best that he should waste any strength now. The swelling has gone down noticeably, and he is surely much improved. The judge has renewed his courage through the hopeful attitude to-day of all those about him, though, God knows, he has been game from the start."

Prominent physicians continued to visit the hospital yesterday and marvel at the progress of the case. The news was allowed to see the patient. Dr. H. E. Dwyer, in charge of the isolation ward, and the other physicians on the Bellevue staff are watching the case with the keenest interest from a medical standpoint. It will mean a new record in medical science if the patient recovers.

The Pasteur Institute, of 361 West Twenty-third Street, notified Dr. Dwyer yesterday that they had a serum which was believed to cure anthrax. It was decided not to go beyond the government serum, particularly in view of the improved state of the patient.

Silhouette Room, Hotel Martingale, Broadway and 32d Street. "THE CUT-UPS."

A Musical Entertainment During Dinner and Supper.

GRAND ROOF GARDEN. 11:30 A. M. to 11:30 P. M. 10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

10-15c. 10-15c. 10-15c.

PROMINENT IN NEW HAVEN CASE.

Left to right—Lewis Cass Ledyard and William Rockefeller in court.

GOETHALS TACKLED A SIX MONTHS' JOB

Giant Earth Waves Challenge Canal Builder—He May Stay Longer.

Panama, Oct. 13.—Major General George W. Goethals, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, said this evening that he had made preparations to remain in the isthmus for six months, and probably longer, should conditions make his stay necessary.

He has advised the commanders of ships now in Panama Canal waters that in view of the slide in Gaillard cut they should make arrangements to proceed to their destinations by other routes than the canal. It is expected that within a few days all the vessels that had intended to use the waterway will have departed.

The condition of the slide remains virtually unchanged. The work of opening the channel is progressing slowly. General Goethals is preparing an exhaustive report and maps and other data concerning the slide, which will be forwarded to Washington in a few days.

Washington, Oct. 12.—A detailed account of the landslide which have closed the Panama Canal indefinitely was cabled to the War Department today by Major General Goethals.

"Masses of material involved in the break of October 14, 1914, which had been sliding gradually into prism, moved precipitately," said the message.

"This, combined with a similar movement from the break which occurred opposite on the west bank in August, causes present conditions."

"Length of channel involved, 1,300 feet, of which 200 feet has present width of 25 feet and depth of 3 to 15 feet."

"For week ending October 9, 209,000 cubic yards of material were dredged, but, as the movement continued, the result has been to maintain only that slides left in the first instance. Canal is therefore physically closed temporarily."

"On the east side, bank is upward of 300 feet above canal level, and on the west side varies from 500 to 400 feet above water level."

"Material in settling and moving creates earth waves with deep depressions behind, those being some 600 to 400 feet from the canal prism, with elevations of 60 to 80 feet above water surface."

"These waves undoubtedly counterbalance weight of broken mass on either side, and when removed may cause another similar movement, hence impossibility of making any prediction as to date of reopening until after waves which now block the channel have been removed and action of remaining material determined. Heavy rains materially affect movement."

"Whether material draft ships can pass in advance of thirty feet, draft ships must depend on conditions when reasonably secure channel is attained."

NOT SURE HE'S GOT OSBORNE. Dr. Diedling May Go Back to Sing Sing for Further Investigation.

Dr. Rudolph Diedling, of the State Prison Commission, may go back to Sing Sing. The investigator who declared Tuesday that he had "got" Warden Osborne just where he wanted him, and that he would not return to the prison, returned yesterday to the State Prison.

Dr. Diedling also said he had ordered a complaint sent to Attorney General Woodbury with reference to the way he was treated by Warden Osborne.

"Against whom I have no personal feeling," Mr. Woodbury appeared as attorney of record for the warden recently when Dennis Kelly sought to be reinstated at the prison, and he is Mr. Osborne's legal adviser as well as the commission's.

SEIZED AS KIDNAPPER. Passenger Arrested with Boy Answering Description of Missing Child.

Charged with kidnapping, a man who said he was Michael Kitchinsky, of 32 Avenue B, was locked up in the Union Market police station last night after he and a three-year-old boy had been taken from the Houston Street ferry house by Patrolman Pottery. A passenger on the boat from Brooklyn had noticed the boy crying and notified Pottery, who asked Kitchinsky if he were the child's father. When he received an unintelligible answer he took him to the station.

About the same time the police received a report of the disappearance of Felix Kalneowsky, three years old, from his home, 64 Grand Street, Brooklyn. The description of the child, the police learned from that of the boy with Kitchinsky.

Kitchinsky.

Kitchinsky.

Kitchinsky.

NEW HAVEN TRIAL OPENS; JURYMEN HARD TO FIND

One Hundred Talesmen Summoned, Only 3 in Box at End of Day.

SCORE OF LAWYERS FOR 11 DIRECTORS

Answers of Veniremen Amuse William Rockefeller—235 "Noes" from One Man.

Banked by a score of eminent lawyers, eleven east and present directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad went on trial yesterday morning before Judge William J. Hunt, in the Federal Court, charged with conspiring to monopolize the railroad and steamship business in New England.

The day's effort to place in the jury box twelve men of the expert intelligence necessary to an understanding of what led to the indictment of twenty-one New Haven directors last February saw in the box at 4:30 p. m. when an adjournment was taken until 10:30 this morning, three tentative jurors.

These men are Daniel M. Flanagan, sixty retired drygoods dealer, of 80 Manhattan Avenue; Max Hartman, sixty, commission merchant, of 16 East Thirty-third Street; and Albert N. Welden, forty-two, builder, of 3063 Bainbridge Avenue.

Of the twenty-one men indicted three have been relieved of trial because of previous testimony which made them immune from prosecution, six obtained permission to be tried separately and twelve were ordered to go on trial yesterday. But Alton B. Parker, attorney for George Macculough Miller, in answering to Mr. Miller, who is eighty-three, is ill at his home in Morristown, and it is probable that he will receive a separate trial. Because of his age and condition there is little likelihood that he will ever be tried.

The defendants are William G. Rockefeller, Charles F. Brooks, Robert W. Taft, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Charles M. Pratt, D. Newton Barney, Frederick F. Brewster, Henry J. Medley, James S. Huntington, A. Heaton Robertson and Edward D. Robbins.

All of the defendants required to be present yesterday morning were in the hands when court opened at 10 a. m. The one hundred talesmen summoned on the first panel, fifty-four appeared, and an hour was consumed in excusing twenty-two of these. The room was so crowded with defendants, lawyers and talesmen who arrived in the afternoon that it was necessary to accommodate all of the veniremen.

This situation attracted several hundred persons of the general public, eager to survey the unusual assembly of great names, but there was little opportunity to do this except when the defendants and their attorneys entered and left the courtroom.

After some of the talesmen had been excused, the plan being to examine them there and challenge those not satisfactory.

Mr. Flanagan was the first who survived more than three questions. He is rather a curiosity. He has never travelled on the New Haven road. In his anxiety to see the country he has confined his travelling to Buffalo, Trenton and Paterson. He made two trips to Paterson, in explaining this restraint of wanderlust he said his business had been that of drygoods, not transportation.

In order to fix on men as jurors those who had no friends connected with railroad, steamship, banking or trust companies associated with the combination that it is alleged, was in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, it was necessary for DeLancey Nicoll, who conducted the examination for all the defendants, to read off the names of 105 companies and seventy individuals. That made on this one feature alone of the examination 235 questions to which Mr. Flanagan patiently answered "no."

The cross-examination by James W. Osborne, of counsel for the government, did not last long, but Mr. Flanagan remained under questioning for nearly three hours.

Mr. Hartman heard most of these questions, so his direct and cross-examination was not so long. During the questioning by Mr. Nicoll he asked Mr. Hartman whether he knew that it has been the policy of the government to let railroad men together, such as the New York Central and the Pennsylvania. Mr. Batts objected to this and Judge Hunt sustained him.

The proceeding yesterday was central-landed and very full. Mr. Rockefeller flew round the room and then from the stupid answers of some of the talesmen. When these incidents happened he would lean over with smiling comment to Mr. Robbins.

The cross-examination ended Mr. Rockefeller, in quick and pleasant response to a request by a group of camera men, took a seat on the spectators' platform and posed for them.

O'LEARY SHIFTS LOAN TALK. Urges Staten Islanders to Use Influence with Bank Directors.

Instead of advising bank depositors to withdraw their money as a protest against the American loan to the Allies, Frederick J. O'Leary, of the American Truth Society told Staten Islanders at the German Club, Stapleton, last night to use their influence with the directors of the banks.

This amendment to the latter line of argument of the society came after the police had descended in full force on the mass meeting. Before the meeting began Inspector Calabrese and Captain Rantry called the attention of the chairman, Dr. A. R. Read, and President O'Leary to the law which makes it a misdemeanor for any person to make false statements or start false rumors about banking institutions.

Six detectives and patrolmen in uniform were assigned to see that the law was enforced.

PHOTO $1.50. HALF LIFE SIZE. TINTED OR COLORED. Regular Price $1.00 each. Also made from New York Photos. Positives made in 24 hours. "The Photographer's Town."

231 W. 125TH ST., near 7th Ave. 9 E. 42D ST., near 4th Ave. 149TH ST. & 3D AV., over Bklyn. 1482 BROADWAY, near Mail Bldg. 316TH AVE., at 43D ST. 345 BROADWAY, at 53D ST. 115 W. 42D ST., near 7th Ave. 472 FULTON ST., Brooklyn.

PLAN PEACE UNION OF NEUTRAL NATIONS. International Conference Will Urge Wilson to Act.

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—The International Peace Conference devoted today a resolution directing David Starr Jordan, president of the congress and chancellor of Stanford University, to go to Washington at once and urge President Wilson to call a conference of neutral nations to form a permanent body to bring about peace. Dr. Jordan will leave tomorrow.

Speakers at the closing sessions of the congress included Dr. Charles S. McFarland, of New York; Professor G. E. Urey, Jr., of McGill University, Tokio; Senator Henri La Fontaine, of Belgium, president of the International Peace Bureau; Dr. John Mez, of Germany; and Arthur D. Call, of Washington, secretary of the American Peace Society.

PHOTO $1.50. HALF LIFE SIZE. TINTED OR COLORED. Regular Price $1.00 each. Also made from New York Photos. Positives made in 24 hours. "The Photographer's Town."

231 W. 125TH ST., near 7th Ave. 9 E. 42D ST., near 4th Ave. 149TH ST. & 3D AV., over Bklyn. 1482 BROADWAY, near Mail Bldg. 316TH AVE., at 43D ST. 345 BROADWAY, at 53D ST. 115 W. 42D ST., near 7th Ave. 472 FULTON ST., Brooklyn.

PHOTO $1.50. HALF LIFE SIZE. TINTED OR COLORED. Regular Price $1.00 each. Also made from New York Photos. Positives made in 24 hours. "The Photographer's Town."

231 W. 125TH ST., near 7th Ave. 9 E. 42D ST., near 4th Ave. 149TH ST. & 3D AV., over Bklyn. 1482 BROADWAY, near Mail Bldg. 316TH AVE., at 43D ST. 345 BROADWAY, at 53D ST. 115 W. 42D ST., near 7th Ave. 472 FULTON ST., Brooklyn.

PHOTO $1.50. HALF LIFE SIZE. TINTED OR COLORED. Regular Price $1.00 each. Also made from New York Photos. Positives made in 24 hours. "The Photographer's Town."

231 W. 125TH ST., near 7th Ave. 9 E. 42D ST., near 4th Ave. 149TH ST. & 3D AV., over Bklyn. 1482 BROADWAY, near Mail Bldg. 316TH AVE., at 43D ST. 345 BROADWAY, at 53D ST. 115 W. 42D ST., near 7th Ave. 472 FULTON ST., Brooklyn.

PHOTO $1.50. HALF LIFE SIZE. TINTED OR COLORED. Regular Price $1.00 each. Also made from New York Photos. Positives made in 24 hours. "The Photographer's Town."

MURDER NIGHT IN GREATER CITY; FIVE ARE DEAD

Pedler Patient Slays Policlinic Orderly and Escapes.

WOMAN STRANGELY SLAIN IN RICHMOND

Harlem Man Kills Wife and Self—Italian Feudist Slain.

Angered because an attempt was made to restrain him in a cot, Joseph William Nicholson, sixty-five, whipped a knife from his clothing and plunged it into the heart of John Cavanaugh, a young orderly at the Policlinic Hospital, last night.

Running unsteadily because of the effects of alcohol, Nicholson then bounded up the steps from the emergency ward in the basement of the hospital to the second floor. He threw open the door of a room in which Miss Margaret Hall, a trained nurse, was treating the wife of his victim for an infected finger, and leaped through an open window to the yard at the rear of the institution.

After sealing two fences he forced Mrs. Mary Deleacout to open the rear and front doors of her home at 353 West Fifty-fifth Street, and escaped.

Nicholson, who gave a fictitious address in West Thirty-fifth Street, was peddling automobile soap at a garage at 218 West Sixty-fifth Street, yesterday afternoon, when his condition caused him to fall. In the street he was found and laid open above his right eye. An ambulance from the Policlinic Hospital was summoned.

At the institution Dr. Poole took several stitches in the wound and ordered a nurse to place the injured man in a cot. A few minutes after he was taken to the emergency ward in the basement Nicholson left his bed and wandered to the floor above, where he saw his wife called Cavanaugh, who opened the patient to the emergency room.

The soap salesman resented the interference with his strolls. When the young orderly attempted to use force in placing him on a cot he drew a long-bladed clasp knife and stabbed him.

Cavanaugh's dying scream brought Dr. Moyman, the house surgeon, to his side, but it was too late to do anything for him. He struck his forehead and soon ran up the stairs to the main corridor. With his head still swathed in bandages and the bloody claspknife in his hand he ran through Miss Hall's room and escaped.

Peeling potatoes when the man appeared at her kitchen door and demanded that he be let out into the street. She complied, then collapsed. He ran to the street and called to him came to Eighth Avenue, Nicholson there demanded 10 cents from a chauffeur standing on the corner. His request being refused, he continued his flight south along Eighth Avenue, and was last seen, so far as the police could learn, near Forty-second Street.

Patrolman Bauman, of the West Forty-seventh Street police station, was called into the hospital and he took the pursuit of the drink-crazed salesman. He commandeered a taxicab at Eighth Avenue and Fifth Street, and raced to Forty-second Street, but could not overtake his man. He next went to 313 West Thirty-fifth Street, where Nicholson had said he lived, and found that the man he sought was unknown there.

Detectors from the 24 Branch took

up the search last night. It was believed that because of the conspicuousness of the bandages on his head it would be easy to pick him up in some of the saloons on the West Side.

Cavanaugh had been employed at the Policlinic Hospital for the last two months, according to Dr. James A. Norris, the superintendent, and was regarded as a model orderly. He was employed by the institution. When he realized that the man who dashed through the room in which she was seated was fleeing because he had killed her husband she became hysterical.

The hospital superintendent could give no reason for the laxness which permitted Nicholson to be taken to the emergency ward without being thoroughly searched.

Woman Found Slain in Lonely Cottage. Miss Marion Hart, twenty-nine, was found murdered in her lonely cottage, 1693 Old Stone Road, Bull's Head, Staten Island, at 9 o'clock last night.

Julia Watson, thirty, a neighbor, and Calvin Decker, twenty-nine, a boarder, are held as material witnesses.

The body was discovered by Miss Watson. Unable to open the door when she made a late-night call, she used a window to enter. Getting no response to her repeated calls, she went to the second floor. There she saw Miss Hart's body lying on the bed with the side of the head.

Miss Watson had evidently used an axe covered with burlap, as strands of that material were in the wounds.

Police Watson walked to the nearest police booth, more than a mile away, and returned to the house with Patrolman McCormick. Together they searched the place, but found nothing missing. So quickly had the blows been struck that Miss Hart had no time to struggle. She lay on the bed, her arms by her side, both hands clutching the coverlet.

While McCormick and Miss Watson were searching the house Decker came in. He expressed the greatest surprise and grief over the death of Miss Hart. He declared that he had not been home since 9 o'clock in the morning, at which time he left for work.

Both the woman and man declared that Miss Hart had no enemies and that she was not a thief. They were sure that there was not a thief in the house to attract thieves. Patrolman McCormick notified Assistant District Attorney Sach and Coroner Vail by telephone. He also called an ambulance from St. Vincent's Hospital.

The coroner and prosecutor rushed to the Hart cottage by automobile. They questioned Miss Watson and Decker closely and both repeated the story they had told Patrolman McCormick. After a half hour's questioning the prosecutor held the two as material witnesses.

Miss Hart had lived in her cottage about six years. Decker had been a boarder there three years.

Kills Wife Who Asks Rent Money: Ends Life. Angry because his wife Katherine asked him for rent money as soon as

up the search last night. It was believed that because of the conspicuousness of the bandages on his head it would be easy to pick him up in some of the saloons on the West Side.

Cavanaugh had been employed at the Policlinic Hospital for the last two months, according to Dr. James A. Norris, the superintendent, and was regarded as a model orderly. He was employed by the institution. When he realized that the man who dashed through the room in which she was seated was fleeing because he had killed her husband she became hysterical.

The hospital superintendent could give no reason for the laxness which permitted Nicholson to be taken to the emergency ward without being thoroughly searched.

Woman Found Slain in Lonely Cottage. Miss Marion Hart, twenty-nine, was found murdered in her lonely cottage, 1693 Old Stone Road, Bull's Head, Staten Island, at 9 o'clock last night.

Julia Watson, thirty, a neighbor, and Calvin Decker, twenty-nine, a boarder, are held as material witnesses.

The body was discovered by Miss Watson. Unable to open the door when she made a late-night call, she used a window to enter. Getting no response to her repeated calls, she went to the second floor. There she saw Miss Hart's body lying on the bed with the side of the head.

Miss Watson had evidently used an axe covered with burlap, as strands of that material were in the wounds.

Police Watson walked to the nearest police booth, more than a mile away, and returned to the house with Patrolman McCormick. Together they searched the place, but found nothing missing. So quickly had the blows been struck that Miss Hart had no time to struggle. She lay on the bed, her arms by her side, both hands clutching the coverlet.

WOMAN STRANGELY SLAIN IN RICHMOND

Harlem Man Kills Wife and Self—Italian Feudist Slain.

WOMAN STRANGELY SLAIN IN RICHMOND

Harlem Man Kills Wife and Self—Italian Feudist Slain.

Angered because an attempt was made to restrain him in a cot, Joseph William Nicholson, sixty-five, whipped a knife from his clothing and plunged it into the heart of John Cavanaugh, a young orderly at the Policlinic Hospital, last night.

Running unsteadily because of the effects of alcohol, Nicholson then bounded up the steps from the emergency ward in the basement of the hospital to the second floor. He threw open the door of a room in which Miss Margaret Hall, a trained nurse, was treating the wife of his victim for an infected finger, and leaped through an open window to the yard at the rear of the institution.

After sealing two fences he forced Mrs. Mary Deleacout to open the rear and front doors of her home at 353 West Fifty-fifth Street, and escaped.

Nicholson, who gave a fictitious address in West Thirty-fifth Street, was peddling automobile soap at a garage at 218 West Sixty-fifth Street, yesterday afternoon, when his condition caused him to fall. In the street he was found and laid open above his right eye. An ambulance from the Policlinic Hospital was summoned.

At the institution Dr. Poole took several stitches in the wound and ordered a nurse to place the injured man in a cot. A few minutes after he was taken to the emergency ward in the basement Nicholson left his bed and wandered to the floor above, where he saw his wife called Cavanaugh, who opened the patient to the emergency room.

The soap salesman resented the interference with his strolls. When the young orderly attempted to use force in placing him on a cot he drew a long-bladed clasp knife and stabbed him.

Cavanaugh's dying scream brought Dr. Moyman, the house surgeon, to his side, but it was too late to do anything for him. He struck his forehead and soon ran up the stairs to the main corridor. With his head still swathed in bandages and the bloody claspknife in his hand he ran through Miss Hall's room and escaped.

Peeling potatoes when the man appeared at her kitchen door and demanded that he be let out into the street. She complied, then collapsed. He ran to the street and called to him came to Eighth Avenue, Nicholson there demanded 10 cents from a chauffeur standing on the corner. His request being refused, he continued his flight south along Eighth Avenue, and was last seen, so far as the police could learn, near Forty-second Street.

Patrolman Bauman, of the West Forty-seventh Street police station, was called into the hospital and he took the pursuit of the drink-crazed salesman. He commandeered a taxicab at Eighth Avenue and Fifth Street, and raced to Forty-second Street, but could not overtake his man. He next went to 313 West Thirty-fifth Street, where Nicholson had said he lived, and found that the man he sought was unknown there.

Detectors from the 24 Branch took

up the search last night. It was believed that because of the conspicuousness of the bandages on his head it would be easy to pick him up in some of the saloons on the West Side.

Cavanaugh had been employed at the Policlinic Hospital for the last two months, according to Dr. James A. Norris, the superintendent, and was regarded as a model orderly. He was employed by the institution. When he realized that the man who dashed through the room in which she was seated was fleeing because he had killed her husband she became hysterical.

The hospital superintendent could give no reason for the laxness which permitted Nicholson to be taken to the emergency ward without being thoroughly searched.

Woman Found Slain in Lonely Cottage. Miss Marion Hart, twenty-nine, was found murdered in her lonely cottage, 1693 Old Stone Road, Bull's Head, Staten Island, at 9 o'clock last night.

Julia Watson, thirty, a neighbor, and Calvin Decker, twenty-nine, a boarder, are held as material witnesses.

The body was discovered by Miss Watson. Unable to open the door when she made a late-night call, she used a window to enter. Getting no response to her repeated calls, she went to the second floor. There she saw Miss Hart's body lying on the bed with the side of the head.

Miss Watson had evidently used an axe covered with burlap, as strands of that material were in the wounds.

Police Watson